

base station A

base station B

hatched: A has started transmitting while B still listens for faint uplink signals